

A Post Graduate Teacher (PGT) in Humanities instructs senior secondary students (Grades 11-12) in subjects such as History, Political Science, or Sociology. They create lesson plans, conduct assessments, and foster critical thinking to prepare students for board examinations and higher education.

Key Responsibilities

- Teaching & Curriculum: Deliver engaging lessons aligned with CBSE or equivalent standards, focusing on conceptual clarity and analytical skills.
- Assessment & Evaluation: Prepare, administer, and grade tests, assignments, and board exam preparatory assessments.
- Student Mentoring: Offer academic guidance, career counseling, and support, particularly for students pursuing competitive exams.
- Classroom Management: Maintain a productive and disciplined learning environment, utilizing modern, interactive teaching aids.
- Collaboration & Development: Collaborate with staff for curriculum planning, attend parent-teacher meetings, and participate in school events.

Required Qualifications & Skills

- Education: Master's degree in a relevant subject (History, Political Science, Sociology) and a Bachelor of Education (B.Ed).
- Experience: Previous experience teaching senior secondary students in a recognized school.
- Skills: Strong communication skills (fluency in English), subject matter expertise, and technology proficiency for digital learning.

Common Subjects Handled

- History, Political Science, Geography, Economics, Sociology, and sometimes Psychology.

Working Conditions

- Full-time, generally with hours from 9 AM to 5 PM, though flexible for extra classes during exam periods.